Physician Recruiting

Recruiting physicians from residency or fellowship is no doubt a big part of your physician recruiting program. New graduates bring up-to-date clinical information and fresh ideas to the practice, not to mention the fact that they are less expensive to hire than established physicians.

You've proceeded through the recruiting process by the book... you've heard it over and over..."Recruit the Spouse", "Involve Key Physicians and Administrators", "Invite for a Second Visit".

Low and behold you have signed the prospect who will begin practice in July!

Wait a minute, not so fast!

You've received that dreaded call. One of your July 07 superstar candidates has decided they can't join the practice as planned after all. Once you pick yourself up off the floor, what to do?

Call us, we can help! A well-qualified locum tenens physician can provide the bridge you need to continue to serve your patients while you're recruiting a permanent candidate.
